Every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Young Men's Bible Class meets in the Church. Normally three-fourths of the membership of this class is composed of McGill men. This session the same welcome awaits them. Mr. Peter A. Doig presides, and Colonel Gerald W. Birks conducts the class.

Every Sunday, too, from 5.15 until 6.45 there is an informal "social" in the Church Halls, with tea, music and good-fellowship. This is specially intended for young men and women.

And from 7 to 7.30 in the Church there is a Musical Half-Hour—Mr. W. H. Thorley at the organ, and Mr. W. A. Coates conducting.

To any and all of these, McGill Students are warmly invited.

The Ministers of "American" desire to place themselves at the service of students, and they can always be reached by telephone—Uptown 2523.

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS AT CONVOCATION

Sir Charles Sherrington Received Degree of LL.D.

IMPRESSIVE SPEECH

Twenty Degrees Conferred at R.V.C. at Founder's Day Ceremony

Three dominant factors, purpose, method, and power, were very ably discussed by Sir Arthur Currie in the Principal's Founder's Day address on "Principles of Education," delivered in the Royal Victoria College yesterday afternoon. The speech was pronounced the greatest yet made by Sir Arthur by many of those present, professors and students alike. The annual address and autumn convocation assumed a greater importance with the presence of Sir Charles Sherrington, President of the Royal Society, who was the sole recipient of the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Speaking on the purpose of education, the Principal declared that increase of knowledge was not the first requirement. "It is the increase of men of character who will rightly use knowledge," he said. The purpose of education is the making of character, the development of worthy men. Character is the sum total of the influences of life, and these influences need the most careful direction. Education is something more than the training of the mind. It is the development of the whole man in the highest direction. Knowledge may become an instrument of torture in the hands of a base soul, or it may be a sordid thing in the hands of a man whose eye is fixed on gain.

"There have perhaps been three clearly defined purposes of education in the long history of man. The ancient Hebrew built all his system of education on righteousness. The foundations of his schools were the tablets of the Divine law. He was anxious to develop the power of choice between good and evil with the strengthening of the will to choose the good. The purpose of education was fulfilled in the development of a man who walked uprightly and kept the commandments. "The Greek race built everything upon reason. dominant idea was the unfolding of reason, the clarifying of the power of thought and imagination. His ideal man was one who saw things as they are, and understood their nature and felt beauty and followed the truth.

"Now, both of these are excellent objects for education, but they have their manifest weaknesses. The Greek ideal tended to foster an intellectual isolation. The Hebrew ideal gave shelter to the hateful spirit of pharisaism. I believe the Anglo-Saxon has perhaps conceived a third ideal—that of

MARITIME CLUB PLANS FOR YEAR

Program Outlined at Last Night's Meeting

The first meeting of the Maritime Club for 1922-23, was held last evening in the Assembly Room of Strathcona Hall. The meeting was very successful, about 35 being present. New officers were elected, and the programme for the coming year was discussed.

The new officers are Dr. MacMillan, hon. president; D. J. MacGillivray, president; Miss D. Teed vice-president; R. K. Jones, secretary; and C. Thompson, treasurer.

Skating parties, dancing and smokers are on the programme. The executive will also make efforts to have the club addressed by prominent speakers from time to time.

Judging from the spirit shown at the first meeting, the club is starting its most successful year, and will doubtless bring together many McGill students who claim the eastern provinces as their home.

At the grave of a departed, the old dorkie pastor stood, hat in hand. Looking into the abyss, he delivered this funeral oration: "Samuel Johnson," he said, "you is gone, an' we hopes you is gone where we 'spects you ain't."

Hamilton Gives Ruling On "Rushing"

STANDARD INSIGNIA

Freshmen Must Wear Distinguishing Marks Till November 6

At a meeting of second year class presidents held yesterday, R. L. Hamilton, president of the Students' Council, impressed upon his hearers the necessity of keeping all "rushing" and "hazing" within bounds. "I myself have no objection to initiation, provided it is carried out in a fair, square and sportsman-like manner."

The question of some distinctive mark for freshmen was brought up, and it was decided that hats of an original design were most suitable. Some attempt at uniformity is to be made. However, as certain faculties have gone to the trouble of decorating their freshmen with the brilliant ties, clerical collars, and reversed waist-coats, it has been decided to leave such additional activities to the discretion of the various sophomore years.

This does not mean that this year's freshmen will get off with only wearing part of their regalia—for every freshman must wear their uniform hats, each bearing the distinguishing mark of their faculty.

The length of time during which first year students will be expected to wear their hats also came up for discussion; as a result, it was decided that they should be worn until Nov. 6th. While those other further additions to the regalia, which have been imposed by the faculties themselves should be abandoned in about a week or sooner, at the discretion of the faculty.

Pres. Hamilton was most emphatic in urging that the "rush" should not exceed the bounds laid down by common sense and degenerate into ruffianism and license. As stated above, the President of the Council is by no means opposed to the initiation of freshmen. "As long as rushing is carried out in a fair and sportsman-like manner, and no harm done to body or property, and there is no interference with lectures, it becomes a valuable experience to freshmen." "Hammie" went on to say that far from being

VIEWS ON MCGILL

Esprit de Corps of Undergraduates Commented On

In an interview granted a "Daily" representative yesterday morning at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Sir Charles Sherrington, F.R.S., LL.D., President of the Royal Society and Wayneville Professor of Physiology at the University of Oxford, stated that he had been especially struck by the remarkable esprit de corps of the undergraduates and graduates of McGill, with whom he had come in contact, both here and in the Old Country. Professor Sherrington, who has been visiting this country for the purpose of delivering the inaugural address at the recent opening of the new Biological Building, is returning to England immediately. "My present visit to Canada has been solely a visit to McGill," said Sir Charles, "and I have had very little time for the observation of Canadian conditions." Nevertheless, he was of the opinion that an English visitor could not fail to be impressed by the "bigness" of this country. Canada, he stated, is a new and youthful country, where opportunity is unshackled by tradition. It is a country of widespread area with a comparatively small population, so that the discontent and unrest of the crowded old world has not become a potent factor in post-war Canadian society. The most pressing need of the world to-day is a quiet period of respite, in which real hard work may have a chance to repair the ravages of war.

On being asked to make a comparison between the undergraduate activities of his own university, and those that he found at McGill, Professor Sherrington replied that life at the two universities presented at the same time some striking differences and some remarkable similarities. At Oxford the undergraduates belong to separate colleges to which they sometimes feel they owe their allegiance rather than to the university as a whole. Many of the men at Oxford are drawn from the governing classes, and ultimately enter the Civil Service or make use of their university career as a preparation for final entrance into politics.

Like the men at McGill, he stated, they are gentlemen of the finest sportsmanship and the highest ideals. The old Oxford of tradition, at which an aesthetic culture based upon the literature of Greece and Rome, and a religious mediaevalism were the sole objects of pursuit, has been replaced by a university imbued with a new spirit of enquiry and research that is

DR. SCLATER HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT

Noted Minister Speaks At David Maurice Hall

It is announced that Dr. J. R. P. Sclater, minister of the New North Church, Edinburgh, is to be the speaker at the first of a series of meetings to be held at David Maurice Hall, 67 McTavish Street, during the coming week. The meeting at 8.00 p.m. on Monday, October 9th, at which Dr. Sclater is to speak, will be open to the public, and students are particularly invited to attend.

Dr. Sclater is not only a noted preacher, but has also an enviable reputation as one of the most outstanding student leaders in the British Isles, and as such his name is well known in student circles in other countries. The brevity of his visit to Canada, and the fact that it came at a time when the colleges were not in session, have prevented his making a fuller acquaintance with Canadian students. Men who are looked upon today by the student bodies of Great Britain as worthy successors of Dr. Henry Drummond in student leadership are always welcome in Canadian colleges. Dr. Sclater's only address at McGill before sailing for Scotland will be that given on Monday night. While the subject announced, "The Enterprise of Preaching," may sound a little too professional for the average student, those who know Dr. Sclater would urge, "hear him on any subject." And Monday night provides the opportunity.

TO-DAY'S GAME

The initial Intercollegiate Athletic Contest of the season takes place this afternoon in Toronto, when the McGill team will meet the University of Toronto representatives. Interest in the forthcoming game has been growing steadily throughout the past week, until at the time of going to press little else is spoken of in Campus circles. The vast improvement shown by the team in recent workouts over that displayed earlier in the season, and the rapid rounding into form under the able supervision of the Coach, has caused an increased feeling of optimism to permeate college circles, and very few of the very pessimistic are left.

The McGill team has a Herculean task before them, it must be admitted. The Varsity team is left practically intact from last year, while several of the McGill team will be making their debut in senior company. The Toronto team also has the advantage of having capable substitutes to fill every position. But, in spite of all this, it is the general feeling that there is a surprise in store for those Toronto supporters anticipating an easy victory for the home team, and that it would not be at all extraordinary should McGill prove victorious.

HAZING AND SPORTS' DAY

The culmination of the ill-effects from the irregular system of hazing, that has been apparent during the past few days, came yesterday, when the Principal's address in the afternoon was attended by a mere handful of students, principally because the members of the first year feared to go to any place about the university in a series of sporadic attempts at conflicts between the students of Freshman and Sophomore years, and the attendance at lectures suffered as a consequence, but it was not thought that it caused a regrettable state of affairs, such as occurred yesterday.

It is almost inevitable, and perhaps rightly so, that there should be some form of initiation in the early part of the year, but it should have been arranged so that it would cause no interference with the regular course of affairs. The Student's Council had intended to make an attempt to set aside one day for the purpose of settling the affairs between the two years, when there would be no reason for disrupting the schedule of lectures and, for that purpose, was considering having the rush on University Sports' Day, as had been the custom in former years, when that institution was in vogue. However, the suggested plans were set aside when the university authorities cancelled the privilege of a holiday for that event, and there was not a day left for the required meeting of the two years until far too late in the season to be of any advantage. The result has been that the various classes took the matter in their own hands, with the quite apparent bad results.

There will be no holiday for the University Sports—that is quite definitely settled. Under the circumstances the Students' Council has had only one alternative, and that was to fix a definite date, after which no further hazing of the freshmen would be permitted. It has been decided that the second year may have until Monday night next to properly subdue the newcomers to the university, and, commencing on Tuesday, October tenth, a truce will have to be declared between the two factions. The rule concerning the wearing of the freshman caps will have to be adhered to until the date which was settled yesterday at the conference between the President of the Students' Council and the executives of the Sophomore years.

The prompt action which has been taken by the administrative body of the Students' Society should give the second year undergraduates plenty of time to complete the work which they feel necessary and will, at the same time, allow the various faculties to get properly started at the academic work which has been seriously set back during the past week.

SHERRINGTON INTERVIEWED BY THE DAILY

studying and discussing contemporary problems of economics and social justice. This new spirit has also made itself manifest at the sister university of Cambridge, where it has taken the form of scientific enquiry and research. Sir Charles showed himself keenly interested in student activities at McGill, and wished to be informed as to the various sports which were held around the campus, and enquired as to the management of fraternities and the functions of the Union!

Informed that some theories as to the ultimate origin of life had been the subject of an interesting address delivered before the Chemical Society last session, Professor Sherrington stated that a large number of theories had been put forward, and that while many were stimulating in the extreme, none were completely satisfactory. A satisfactory solution of these problems is within the bounds of possibility; but though the question "how" may be answered, the much more far-reaching question "why" remains, and to this it can never be hoped that science will be able to furnish a satisfactory reply.

Biological science, stated Sir Charles, received the greatest impetus of its history just prior to his life-time, when Darwin published his work on the Origin of Species and Pasteur carried out his epoch-making experiments on the nature of organisms appearing in milk that has been left standing. As to the hope that some day the biological chemist will be able to create living organisms in the laboratory, Professor Sherrington expressed the opinion that this was no more than an idle dream, which if its realization were within the bounds of possibility, would result in moral chaos too appalling to conceive of.

Sir Charles is returning to England immediately on the S.S. "Melita" as he came to Canada for the sole purpose of attending the inauguration ceremonies of the Biological Building, and has important engagements in England that make any extended trip an impossibility.

Patron (crossly): "Gay waiter, what are these black specks in my cereal?" Waiter (after close inspection): "Dunno, sir, unless it's some of them vitamins people are talking about now."

NOTICES

Complaints have been reaching the Students Council that the rushing and threats to rush are interfering seriously with not only classes, but all college activities. For this reason, so that every undergraduate can settle down to his studies earnestly, and without fear of interruption, the Council have decided to declare that after Monday evening there shall be no more rushing. In the past rushing has always ended with the University sports, but since there is no holiday on that day, and it is impossible to hold one big rush and get it over, and since it is not fair to freshmen that they should have to give up their evenings from study, to start a year in an unsettled state is bad enough, even for men of upper years, but is much worse for freshmen. Therefore all sophomores are to take notice that no more rushing is to take place after Monday—and on Monday there must not be any disturbance to the freshmen which will in any way prevent them from attending their classes. Freshmen on the other hand, are required to wear their freshmen hats until Nov. 6th, or until such time the Council sees fit to cancel them.

NOTICE.

There will be a meeting of Science 26 on Monday at 5.15 p.m., in Room 33, Engineering Building.

SENIOR RUGBY PRACTICE, OLD CAMPUS

Monday, Oct. 9th, 4.30 p.m.
Everybody out to win the championship again. Uniforms issued at Union. If you play the game come out and play for your faculty. If you don't, come out and learn.

R. V. C. A. A.

There will be a meeting of the Athletic Association on Monday, Oct. 9th, at 1 p.m., in the Common Room.

NOTICE.

Water polo practice will be held at the Central Y. pool at 5.15 p.m. All swimmers are asked to turn out, as there are quite a number of vacancies on the teams to be filled.

FRESHMAN - SOPHOMORE MEET.

All First and Second Year men entering in the Freshman-Sophomore meet, must be medically examined before participating in any event. Any men requiring an examination will have to see Dr. Harvey before they will be allowed to compete.

TRACK

All first and second year men turning out for the track team who require attendances to satisfy the requirements of the Department of Physical Education will have their attendances taken at Molson Hall when getting their locker keys. The first and second year men who do not use Molson Hall as a dressing room must notify the manager, who will be at the Stadium each day, to that effect and their attendance will be taken at the track.

FOR SALE.

Microscope of required Medical Institute. Phone Westmount 419.

FENCING.

A number of foils were left during the vacation in the gymnasium of the Diocesan Theological College. Their owners are requested to communicate with H. Alkman, Arts Building, signifying their intention to continue fencing or to claim their property before October 13.

STUDENT WANTED

Wanted a student to assist in the Cafeteria from 12.00 to 2.00 each day. Apply at once to manager of Cafeteria.

GYMNASIUM SUITS

A limited number of sleeveless jerseys and white running trunks may be secured from the attendant in the Locker Room at Molson Hall at a very reasonable price.

TRACK

All men running in the Freshman-Sophomore meet to-day, must have had their physical examination before running. Any men entering this meet without having had this examination are debarred from all college sport throughout the year.

JEWISH STUDENTS, ATTENTION!

Students desiring rooms or board with Jewish families please communicate with the Maccabean Circle, Tel. Westmount 6511.

CLUBS & SOCIETIES

Notices of meetings of clubs and societies may be dropped into the box placed for that purpose on the door of the Daily office in the basement of the McGill Union. Notices should be in as early as possible.

Soph.—Hear about the fellow who stepped off the hotel roof yesterday while watching an airship?

HUNDRED MEN ENTERTAINED AT THE HALL

Freshmen Meet and Enjoy Themselves

SONGS AND TALKS

Refreshments Served By Girls From the R.V.C.

Nearly a hundred freshmen gathered at the Hall last night for the Freshmen Reception where, with songs, talks on S.C.A. work, and plenty of cake, a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Bill Hewitson led the crowd with college songs, assisted by Willard at the piano, which soon wiped out any stiffness, and soon every freshman knew every other freshman by means of the identification tag pinned on each coat.

Nutting, one of the leaders of the Rooters' Club, gave a short straight-from-the-shoulder talk on rooting. "It's up to you freshmen," he said, "to form the backbone of the rooters." He emphasized the need for the men to turn out at all the rooters' practices, so as to be ready to help the team next Saturday. "Those of you who have been on a team," he continued, "know the value of organized rooting and those of you who have never played can take 'Shag's' word for it that rooting wins games—he knows." Nutting then led the freshmen in a McGill yell.

Mr. MacKay, of the S.C.A., then gave a short talk on the work of the Students' Christian Movement of Canada. "There are forty countries," Mr. MacKay explained, "in the World Christian Federation, and this was the only international association whose links were not broken during the war."

"Students in America have subscribed over half a million dollars for relief work in Central Europe."

The speaker showed the similarity between Sir James Barrie's proposed "League of Youth," and the S. C. A. "It is a young people's movement," went on the speaker, "a movement of freedom and frankness of expression, and it attacks life's problems fearlessly; it is not stereotyped religion, but a religion for 'seekers after truth.'"

After a few songs, Harry Aveson said a few words to the men. He pointed out that the Hall was "a home for seventy men, and a meeting place for all college students." He spoke of the Bible Study groups, and the Sunday evening sings. "If you are not entirely satisfied with life 'in general,'" concluded Aveson, "the S. C. A. is the place for you, for we are seeking the truth."

Refreshments were served by several R. V. C. girls. At first the freshmen were a little bashful, but when the smiling co-eds approached and urged: "Everybody takes two pieces of cake from me, won't you?" few freshmen remembered to be bashful.

THE AVERAGE NIGHTMARE OF A PHYSICAL ED.

Wierd shapes! Fantastic colors! Ceaseless movement! Absolute silence! Fearful yet fascinating, the Physical Ed. gazes about her. On all sides start the things, performing hideous contortions; separating themselves, joining together again, splitting in half, twirling and twisting, twining and turning till she becomes dizzy as she tries to follow the silent eccentricity of their movements.

Suddenly the silence is broken by a curt order "Fall in." Automatically, she falls in, standing in line beside her, are her equally bewildered classmates. But what are these horrible things separating them? A partially preserved human arm! A semi-dissected frog! Terrible shapes escaped from their jars in the medical museum!!! And still those awful movements, those hideous contortions!

Again the silence is pierced by two abrupt commands, "Attention!" and "March!" Shutting her eyes, the Physical Ed. marches forward, mentally visualizing the dreadful bacilli and cocci which must be attaching themselves to her as she goes. Ugh! Something cold, clammy, and slippery touches her neck! She shrieks and runs back holding her hands before her face. Suddenly she bumps into something solid and sits down. Screwing up her courage, she opens her eyes. She is seated at a table in the R.V.C. dining room. Before her is a large steamed pudding with plums in it. She gives herself a generous slice, and as she is starting to eat it, a terrible voice commands her to sing. She looks around the table and sees there, crowded around, the ghosts of all the diseases in the world. She throws down her fork, pushes away the plate in disgust and rises. Once more she hears the order "Sing." Glancing back at the plump pudding she hysterically starts to sing, "I know Where the Flies Go." At once there is a fearful humming and buzzing as of myriads of angry flies. The pudding hurls itself upon her. She shuts her eyes. Through her brain flashes a poem she used to know, about the "Nine Little Goblins," who said, "You shan't wake up till you're clean plumb dead." Standing there with her eyes closed, waiting for the pudding to hit her, she commences to sway. Opening her eyes and seeing the pudding walking away in disgust, she staggers back to the table, pours out a glass of water and raises it to her lips to drink. A thought passes through her tormented brain. Is this water bacteriologically pure with all these diseases here so close? She pauses, but her parched throat demands the water. Hovering near her, over the glass, are all the dreadful diseases. She feels the spectre of insanity clutching at her and with a mirthless laugh she says: "Oh, well, some little bug will get me some day anyway," and drinks from the glass. The water, in a frightful rage, splashes all over her, bubbles round her ankles! her knees! rises steadily, and the next instant she is sinking down! down! She tries to swim, but at every stroke the water beats at her fiercely. A thought strikes her. She shouldn't try to swim after eating steamed plum pudding—of course, she would sink. She laughs at the grim humor of it, and as she opens her mouth it fills with water. She swallows it and laughs again as she remembers that "the water in the Y.W.C.A. swimming tank is purer than the Montreal drinking water." The bugs have made a mistake this time, and she begins to enjoy the sinking sensation. She finds it so delightful just to drift down that she is quite annoyed when rough creatures pull her up, up, and drag her along, haul her arms over her head, push them back again, sit on her! punch her! pound her! bang her! yank her! pinch! until she writhes at every touch.

She opens her eyes again. Funny shapes—squares, triangles, oblongs, things with two or three tails—are expanding and contracting spasmodically all over her body, shrilly crying as they do so. She distinguishes the words—"We are your servants, why do you allow this abuse? 'Who are you?' she asks. Such a din in reply! Such a jumble of words! Finally she catches the words "Hip potatoes." "Hip potatoes!" She exclaims in amazement. "What are they?" Indignantly she is corrected. "Hip Rotatoes," we said, and our names are Hlo-psoas, Sartorius, the Gluteal brothers and Quadratus Femoris." "Ah!" she cries, "I know now. You are my muscles!" and turning to a stretched-out sulkily looking fellow, she asks: "Which one are you?" "Gastrocnemius," he snaps. "Point your feet!"

At these dread words, the wretched Physical Ed. jumps, opens her eyes, and to her horror, finds herself lying in bed with her toes UP! and turned IN!!! In terror and shaking at the awfulness of her crime, she places her feet in a proper position. Knowing that all chances of any more sleep for that night are past, she reaches out her hand, switches on the light and, taking up a note book, starts to review her lectures on Preventive Medicine and Bacteriology.

Moral: Always turn out your feet and point your toes, even in your sleep.

MISS HURLBATT GIVES ADDRESS

Revised Constitution Of R.V.C. Undergraduate Society

A large number of R. V. C. students were present yesterday at the first meeting of the Undergraduate Society for this session. At the opening of the meeting, Miss Hurlbatt, Hon. President of the Society, spoke to the students, welcoming both new-comers to R. V. C. and those returning to complete their courses. After addressing a few words especially to the Freshmen, Miss Hurlbatt dwelt for a while on college life in general, and how the Re-Union of last year brought home what a power and force one's relationships with one's fellow students have for one in after life. Miss Hurlbatt again referred to the Re-Union in speaking of the two main privileges of college life. First, that of doing something worth while, and second that of making life long friends. She closed by hoping the students would justify the changes made in the Curriculum, and wished the Society every success in the coming session.

The Secretary-Treasurer of last year then presented her report, after which the Reading Committee, Miss Banfill from Fourth Year, Miss Walsh from First Year. The following were then appointed to the Library Committee:

Fourth Year—Miss E. Patton.
Third Year—Miss J. Matheson.
Second Year—Miss Affleck.
First Year—Miss A. Carter.

Owing to the fact that many members of the Society have lectures on Wednesday afternoons, the usual time for meetings of the Delta Sigma Society, La Societe Francaise and the S. C. A. Thursday afternoon was decided as being the most suitable and convenient substitute. After this discussion Miss Lorne Evans was appointed Night Editor on the R. V. C. Daily Staff.

The meeting came to an end with the reading of the Constitution, which was revised last year. The most important change was that referring to the quorum. This now states that one quarter of the members of the Society shall constitute a quorum, except in the case of a change in the Constitution, when one-half the members shall constitute a quorum.

MCGILL MEETS VARSITY TEAM IN OPENING GAME

Red and White Took Twenty Players to Toronto — Varsity Halves Very Strong—McGill Should Be Better on Line, But Lack of Substitutes May Handicap Them — Carroll Plays Quarter — Flanagan, Little, Philpotts, Halfbacks.

This afternoon the McGill Rugby team will grapple with the Blue and White Varsity squad on the first gridiron battle in which they have participated this season. The betting is against McGill, for the new material which Shaughnessy has had to depend on for the formation of this year's squad, is as yet an unknown quantity. However, there are still a good sprinkling of veterans remaining on the line-up, and the fighting spirit of these men, combined with the ardour and enthusiasm of the new, may achieve the unexpected, and come across with a win for McGill, providing the freaks in the game go to the Red and White. According to all reports, the Varsity half-line has improved greatly since their game with the Old Boys a week ago. Duncan, Snyder, and Patterson are the outstanding men on the half line. Duncan starred in the Old Boys game, and with such men as Somerville and Zimmerman as backs, should present stiff opposition to Flanagan, Philpotts and Little, who will oppose them on the McGill team. The great weakness of the McGill squad is the lack of substitutes. Shaughnessy has built up a strong line, but it will be difficult to replace the regulars should they be injured during the game.

The Varsity line seemed weak in the Old Boys' game, but doubtless Coach Maynard has discovered some of the weak points during the week's practice since then.

Of late years the McGill line has always been the strongest department of the team, and with such old timers as Ambridge, McGregor and Campbell to form the backbone of the line, doubtless will prove to be as strong as it has been in former years. The game will in all probability resolve itself into a duel between the opposing half lines, and in this case it is hard to predict the outcome. Philpotts has been booting in splendid form this

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM S.C.A. CONFERENCE

Tomorrow at St. Anne de Bellevue

Plans are now complete for the joint conference of the S. C. A.'s of McGill, R. V. C., and Macdonald College, to be held at St. Anne de Bellevue tomorrow. Two special coaches will be added to the 9.20 a.m. C.P.R. train, to accommodate the McGill party, and more will be supplied if necessary.

It is requested that all who desire to attend give their names at Strathcona Hall, by signing on a sheet for the purpose on the front bulletin board in the lobby, or by calling at the office.

Ten trip tickets will be purchased to supply all those who go. These tickets will be provided for all on the train, to leave waiting at the ticket office. The cost of the trip will be $1.05.

The ladies at Macdonald College are supplying lunch at noon, and supper, at cost, making it unnecessary for any to carry lunch, as they did last year.

Weather should not affect plans in any way, as there is comfort in plenty at Macdonald.

The programme for the day will be flexible, so that the party may make such use of the time as seems most desirable. In general it may be said that the morning session, 10.30—12.30, will be given to consideration of some of the important issues raised at Muskoka Conference in their relation to life at McGill. The afternoon session will be given to discussion of the work of the Association in these colleges. In the evening the whole party will attend the Union Church at St. Anne's, where the proved himself to be a good line plunger, Pearce a good man at getting away to end-runs, and McLean is a steady player, with plenty of fight. Foss, Robertson, Walsh and Schwartzman are the new men starting in the line positions, and though all newcomers to senior company this year, have showed themselves to be men of sound calibre. The line substitutes have also shown some form in the practices and can be depended on to come across with the goods if they are called upon to do so.

Manson and Fife went to Toronto last night, and though they will not probably play, will form valuable men late in the season.

The McGill line-up for this afternoon is as follows:—

Regulars:	Substitutes:
Flanagan	Pearce
Philpotts	McLean
Little	Amaron
Carroll	Quarterback
Crain	Flying Wing
McGregor	Centre
Gamble	Inside Wing
Foss	Inside Wing
Cambridge	Midline Wing
Walsh	Outside Wing
Schwartzman	Timmins
Robertson	Easson

service will be in the hands of the students.

Last year seventy McGill men and women attended a similar conference at St. Anne's. This year it is expected that the number will be greatly increased. Everyone is welcome, and can be assured of an interesting and profitable day. Remember the train time—9.20 a.m., Windsor station. Get into the McGill car. The return train leaves St. Anne's at 8.56 p.m.

NEWFOUNDLANDER'S TO MEET NEXT TUESDAY

The Newfoundland Club will hold its first meeting for this year on Tuesday evening, October 10, at 7.30 p.m., in Strathcona Hall. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at this meeting, as Mr. Arthur Mews, C.M.G., acting Colonial Secretary, will be present, should business arrangements permit. Dr. W. H. Hatcher, Honorary President of the club, will also be present, and many prominent Newfoundlanders at present in Montreal have promised to be with the club on Tuesday night next.

Newfoundlanders, who have just come up from the "old sod," should come along, and meet their fellow countrymen, studying in the various faculties. The members of the club, who have responded to the occasion in the past, will certainly see that this meeting is made a huge success, and the newcomers, once more feel they are back in the good old "Newfoundland atmosphere."

Now Newfoundlanders at McGill, don't forget the Club meeting.

Place—Strathcona Hall.

Time—7.30 p.m.

Date—Tuesday, October 10.

INTER-FACULTY RUGBY TEAMS HOLD WORKOUT

Many New Men Out With Teams

GOOD MATERIAL

Close Competition In Inter-faculty League Assured

Interfaculty Rugby football activities commenced this afternoon when workouts of Science, Arts-Law and Commerce were held on the old campus. It is, of course, too early in the season to make any forecast, but from present indications it seems assured that a close and interesting series will take place. The Arts-Law team, which was last year the "weak sister" of the league, seems to show many signs of strength, so with Science, Medicine and Commerce, all providing their usual strong team, keen competition is assured.

Commerce held their workout first, being followed by Arts-Law, and Science. The weather was ideal for rugby, but in spite of that, the crowd that gathered to push the pig-skin was extremely small. The second and third years of Commerce were conspicuous by their absence, leaving the work to the already harassed freshmen. Jack Emo had command of the squad, and put them through their paces in fine style, and while some of them were new to the game, they were all willing to learn. Some of the players give promise of developing into good men before the season is over.

The Commerce faculty is rather handicapped by having so great a number of men on the Intercollegiate teams, however, if the men will turn out, the chances are more than even that Commerce will make a strong bid for the silverware.

Some '25 candidates for positions in the Arts-Law football team turned out for their initial practice.

B. Puddicombe, who has been elected captain, was in charge, and sent the players through a snappy practice, embracing all departments of the game.

An impromptu set of signals was devised, and a scrimmage held.

The enthusiasm with which the boys went to the game and the amount of material from which a team can be chosen, ensures the Arts-Law faculties of being well represented in the interfaculty league.

It was decided to hold the next practice on "Tuesday" at four o'clock, when more uniforms will be available, and all men who have not yet turned out, are earnestly requested to be present Tuesday, without fail.

The Science team, interfaculty champions of 1921, had L. G. Cox doing the work on the side lines.

No scrimmage was held, but the candidates spent the hour in kicking and tackling practice, and generally conditioning themselves.

The men are light, but very fast, and confident of retaining the championship.

"Penalized for holding," said the speculator as his stock dropped fifteen points.

Doctor—You cough easier this morning.

Senior—I ought to, I've been practicing all night.

He—Where did you do most of your skating when you were learning?

She—I think you're horrid.

SOPHOMORES RALLY FOR TRACK MEET

Football Results at Stadium

ENTRY LIST

Freshmen Out to Retrieve Honour

At the Stadium to-day while the track teams of the first and second years are fighting out their traditional battle plans are under way to have the results of the football game announced as they arrive over the special wire from Toronto. The two competing teams have now an almost even chance for the second year men have rallied around their class, and although the expected number is not yet out it is hoped that post entries will rapidly bring up their total. There is a good chance in the hurdles, as only four men are as yet entered. Any man that can get over them has a chance to come through with a win. In several other events a new man has a chance if he is in any condition. The three mile event is also open for more entries and almost any distance runner has a chance.

The meet starts at 2.15 sharp. Men entering the meet should be on time. Post entries will be accepted any time during the day by Manager Henry or Coach Van Wagner. There are one or two men entered who have not as yet had their physical examination this year. These men will not be allowed to run unless they are examined, and if they do so they will be in danger of being barred from college athletics. The extension of the entry time limit gives a lot of men a chance to enter. A few minutes' study of the entry list should show almost any man that he has a chance as there is no entry who has starred on a college track. The general forecast of various authorities shows that the Freshman will take a bit of the dignity out of the Sophomores to-day as a revenge for the rough passage they have been getting. It is rumored that the First Year rooters will be out in force to back their team. The second year men are sitting back and saying nothing, but they may come through with a win.

The meet will be held rain or shine at 2.15. The officials are selected, and the entire arrangements completed. The second year men will benefit slightly by the soft track.

The senior track squad keeps on the track in the rain as well as in clear weather. Among the new men out, Tait, who ran third in the Dominion Championship, and Walker, both of Edmonton, are most promising runners. Alexander is rapidly rounding into shape, and should make some of the old timers step to hold their berths on the team. Fry is also coming into the light more as a fast 880 man. There seems to be every prospect of the meet on next Friday being a success, even though it is the thirteenth and no holiday has been granted to the runners. The entries in all the events show names of well known stars, while several Freshmen who have made good in the scholastic meets are also entered.

QUEEN'S PLAYING HAMILTON TO-DAY

The much advertised Queens team will get its first test of the season to-day, when it meets the outfit representing the Hamilton Rowing Club of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. It would appear that the college team has not chosen a very serious contender for the exhibition game, as the Hamilton outfit was only able to defeat the weak second Varsity squad last Saturday by a comparatively small score.

The contest should, however, give the followers of the fall pastime a good idea of the strength of the Presbyterians, and the outcome of the game will be watched with interest both at Toronto and McGill. With the large list of strong players at their command, Queen's should be able to easily defeat their opponents to-day, and that is what is generally expected will happen, but the size of the score will give a pretty good idea concerning whether or not their team is as strong as has been predicted in the early season rumors.

Queens opens up its intercollegiate schedule here next week, and the game to-day will serve to get the players used to stiff opposition before they meet the strong outfit which Frank Shaughnessy intends to put on the field for the local opening of the season.

McGill supporters have their own idea of what the outcome of next Saturday's game will be, but they will watch the reports of the exhibition game to-day closely, nevertheless.

ELECT MISS PALMER PRESIDENT OF HOUSE

The R. V. C. House Society last evening held its first meeting for the year. Miss Hurlbatt delivered a short address, which was particularly a welcome to those who have this year for the first time entered the R. V. C. as resident students.

Representatives on the House Committee were elected from Third Year; Miss

RUGGERITES SHOW FORM AT PRACTISE

Good Work-out Yesterday—Practice Game To-day

Professor Matthews, Honorary Coach for this season, took charge at the English Rugby practice yesterday afternoon, on the Old Campus. Some twenty odd men were out, and were put through a good work-out. The coach contented himself with conditioning his men rather than giving them a regular practice, so passing runs the length of the field with dribbling and tackling practice for forwards and halves, and kicking practice for three-quarters was the order of the day.

Any opinion based on the two first practices of the year must necessarily be subject to revision, but it appears as though, given sufficient practice, there is enough Rugby ability to round out an excellent team, which, while perhaps not as heavy as last year's, should go a long way. From present indications it would appear as if the greatest source of weakness would be the forward line. There is plenty of good material among the three-quarters candidates, and the half-back positions are well filled, but there appears to be lots of opportunities for heavy men on the forward line.

This afternoon a practice game is being held on the Old Campus at 2.15 p.m. A scratch team from the Montreal English Club is coming up, and the following McGill players are asked to turn out: McAvity, Marpole, Price, MacNamee, MacDonald, J. R. Cooper, McIntosh, Patterson, Wilson, McGoun, G. A. Woolcombe, Everett, Halrom, H. C. P. Cooper, Eve, Murray and Taylor.

EXPECT BIG SEASON FOR ROOTER'S BAND

McGill is promised the best Rooters' Band in history for this year. In keeping with the strong organization of the Rooters, the Band has set out to make this a banner year, and will do so undoubtedly on the completion of present plans. Every man in college who can play any sort of an instrument is invited to join the band; at present bass and baritone players are required particularly. The next practice is Monday, at 5 o'clock, in the band room on the top floor of the Union.

The life of the rooters' parade lies in the leadership of the band, while the band occupies a surprisingly indispensable position at all games. To lead the singing next Saturday the band must go over the songs together, and for that reason all players and new members are most strongly urged to be out at the practice on Monday, especially the following men are asked to be out: "Simmy" Simpson, R. Burland, Weems, Harrison, J. Puddicombe, Pepin.

Jean Matheson, and from Second Year, Miss Eileen Longworth, and from First Year, Miss Margaret Higginson.

Immediately following the meeting the open ballot for President took place, the result of which showed Miss Edna Palmer to be the choice of the House. Miss Palmer is a general favorite among the residents and her election will be gladly welcomed by House girls of all years.

CONSOLATION TROPHY IS NOVEL FEATURE

Great interest has been aroused among tennis enthusiasts over a rather unique feature of the R. V. C. Tennis tournament, which will tend to develop a good spirit of sportsmanship in the form of a Consolation Tournament, for which Miss Cartright has very kindly offered a small trophy.

The first rounds in the Consolation Trophy will be over by Saturday night: THE DRAW.

R. Dunton vs. H. Marshall.
M. Neighorn vs. — Martin.
E. Dunton vs. L. Evans.
E. Longworth vs. E. Millen.
L. Kerr vs. A. Silver.
J. Spier vs. E. Hertzberg.

The following games of the regular tournament have been played off, and all second round results must be in by Saturday night.

E. Dunton vs. D. Hutchison. Won by Hutchison, 9-6.
A. Silver vs. F. Perry. Won by Perry, 10-5.

Z. Slack vs. L. Kerr. Won by Slack, 15-6.
M. Cameron vs. F. Stockign. Won by Stockign by default.

K. Goodwin vs. H. Marshall. Won by Godwin.
M. Leggett vs. L. Evans. Won by Leggett 13-2.

J. Affleck vs. J. Spier. Won by Affleck by default.
J. Affleck vs. L. Bingham. Won by Bingham, 10-5.

E. Longworth vs. L. Desbarats. Won by Desbarats, 10-5.
R. Dunton s. A. Roy. Won by Roy, 9-7.

I. Millen vs. C. Robertson. Won by Robertson 1-2.
F. Secord vs. B. Martin. Won by Secord by default.

G. Campbell vs. E. Hertzberg. Won by Campbell.
K. Perrin vs. M. Neighorn. Won by Perrin, 9-6.

KNICKERBOCKERS—WHY NOT?
It is a custom at Princeton, to allow only upper-classmen to wear knickerbockers. But that is exactly as it should be, for the under-classman hasn't had on his long trousers long enough to have gotten tired of them, and he still needs them to convince himself that he is almost grown-up. Besides, the under-classmen should always make an effort to be dignified. The junior and senior, however, as a rule, have acquired enough dignity so that no one would feel hurt if they laid it aside occasionally; and this, therefore, should be their privilege; to bedeck themselves in the trousers of boyhood whenever they so desire.

The students at Cornell and most of the other eastern colleges have long been in the habit of wearing knickers, and the comfort and good sense of it should have appealed before now to men in our middle-western institutions. In fact, the custom has already been taken up to some extent at Wisconsin and Illinois, and is quite in vogue at California. But there is nothing at all new in the idea, even in the west; for knickerbockers were popular some 25 years ago, not only in England and the eastern states, but also throughout this part of the country.

In bad weather they will be found a very sensible mode of apparel. Wool golf hose are warm and comfortable; they are an ideal means of keeping the bi-weekly press in the good trousers that would otherwise have to be worn in the snow or rain, for we are not all seniors.

There is a warning, however, Knickerbockers are generally associated with golf or mountain climbing, so that if the student who wears them is pretty much of a "dub" at the good old royal game, he had better stay far away from the golf course and claim to have spent last summer in Colorado. But this is an unimportant matter and when the cold breezes are blowing under the big, loose bottoms of the other student's long trousers, the fellow with knickers on can afford to smile to himself over his own nerve in risking being taken for an expert with the clubs.

"HAZING"

The Students' Council has announced that no further hazing of freshmen will be permitted after Monday. This means that commencing Tuesday morning the second year must cease all activities and that no further rushing will take place.

The rule concerning the wearing of the freshmen's caps will still remain in force, however.

entirely bad, this activity has value in college life. If there is one thing lacking in a new freshman year, it is that sense of unity and cohesion which in the future is developed into class spirit—a most valuable asset to every class. The sense of trouble and peril which every freshman feels at this time of the year has been found to instill that much-desired sense of unity into a disorganized crowd of green and verdant freshmen. One poor sufferer sees another on the street by means of his regalia, he is promptly recognized, not only by all the world as a first year's student, but also by the stranger in the same predicament as himself. Thus to members in the same class, who, in other circumstances might not have met for months, are introduced to each other in an informal, but effective manner.

"This is not the only advantage," continued Mr. Hamilton. It teaches the various members of a new class to pull together. The wearing of distinctive insignia shows freshmen that they are not clothed with the authority which does not permit them to give advice to their seniors, and make them realize their places as freshmen. Finally, their initiation in years to come will be a source of much amusement and pride to look back upon.

The President's final advice to sophomores deserves to be noted, and be followed: "Act in a sportsmanlike manner; let nothing interfere with academic pursuits; respect property, and above all, do nothing to lower the name of Old McGill."

EDUCATION MORE EXPENSIVE THAN IDLENESS

Without doubt economic conditions throughout the country are as bad as they have been for many years, and it is probable that material relief will not come before the spring. Many students now in college are faced with the possibility of remaining out of school the second semester because of lack of funds. Before making the final decision, however, it would be well to take into consideration the chances of obtaining remunerative employment of case of withdrawal from college. A little careful planning and economical living and the average college student will find that he can remain in college for one more than it would cost him to remain out of college in idleness, and the ultimate gain will be infinitely greater.—Kansas State College.

I used to think I knew I knew,
But now I must confess,
The more I know I know,
I know I know the less.

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS AT CONVENTION

service. He perceived that righteousness is not reasonable, and that reason is not righteousness unless they are both communicable and serviceable. Let us rather combine these three ideals in one, and then we shall have a worthy purpose for education. Reason, Righteousness and Service—that touches the mind, the heart and the soul of man. It assures us that knowledge is controlled by righteousness and stands, therefore, for the highest kind of service. The educated man is not merely one who knows more or can do more than others. There is in him a force and power which is original, and relates him anew to the world around him and distributes its strength through all the channels of life. The highest results of our human experience is to bring forth better men and women, able and willing to give of that which makes them better to the world in which they live. The University shall still stand in the place of honour because it bears the clearest and most steadfast witness that the end of education is to create men who can see clearly, imagine vividly, think steadily and will nobly. The final result of true education is not a selfish scholar, nor a scornful critic, nor a skilled workman, but an intelligent and faithful citizen who is determined to put all his powers at the service of his country and mankind.

"This being our high and lofty purpose, how shall we achieve it? What is the best method of undertaking it? In what spirit ought young men and women approach so serious a venture? I am not now speaking about method as it relates itself to the administration of the college. I deal only with what concerns the student. He finds here a very elaborate system, a most carefully planned method of education. He may at first be a little bewildered by the complex nature of the arrangements. What plan must he adopt regarding all this machinery? How is he going to make use of all these appliances and courses in order to reach his goal? There is only one answer to that question—by hard work, unremitting industry and zeal. Let me use a familiar parable for my purpose. "The kingdom is like unto a treasure hid in a field, the which when a man hath found he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath and buyeth that field." Here on this college campus is a treasure hid in a field. Here are buildings set apart to be used as libraries and laboratories, as class rooms and lecture halls. Here are men chosen with care and conscience to teach certain subjects to which they have given the best attention and the best years of their lives. But you cannot stroll by and pick off an education as people pick blackberries from the bushes on a summer day. You will have to dig for that treasure. You will have to stand ready to put in all that you have. The hidden treasure of a real education is only for the man who is willing to pay the price. The college undertakes to set before you an open door into life's deeper meaning, into finer fellowship, into more reliable character, but she cannot yield her deepest treasures to you unless you are willing to dig down and find them.

"It is altogether a stiff task that we have thus far outlined, and the question may well be asked 'who is sufficient for these things?' The novice at college may be alarmed at the prospect and thinking himself unequal to the demand 'turn himself back in the day of battle.' So we invite a moment's consideration to the power provided for the undertaking. 'You are not left unequipped. You have something greater than your own strength to rely upon. You have in the first place the power that flows out of the past. The resources of all the ages are at your command. To-day you take your place in the long procession that stretches across the years. Whatever strength there is in the accumulated experience of man is yours. All that men have gathered out of the long centuries is at your disposal. The immense force of inheritance is in your hands to-day.

"We do not sufficiently value the power of inspiration. All the forces of idealism, tradition, customs—all the enrichments of our humanity by the contributions of the great and small souls of history—these are the impulses that drive us on today. Like the mighty sea that bears the struggling wave shoreward, so these forces of the past urge us on towards our destiny!"

Towards the close of his magnificent address, Sir Arthur touched on the vision of the future, another source of strength to the university man and woman, saying that having caught the vision of a new day for Canada, added power would be given the student. "You are here," he concluded, "to fit yourselves for that glorious future; to help shape the destiny of the nation. It is a high and solemn task that will require the utmost of your strength and industry, but the power at your command is more than sufficient. To the worthy man, there is no doubt about the issue."

Rev. Dr. Ritchie, Principal of the Congregational College, opened the Convocation with prayer, following which Dr. A. B. Macallum, Professor of Vio-Chemistry, presented Sir Chas. Scott Sherrington, G.B.E., M.A., D.Sc., LL.D., Waynflete Professor of Physiology, Oxford University, and President of the Royal Society of Great Britain and Ireland, for the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws of McGill University.

Dr. Macallum gave a short sketch of Sir Charles' brilliant career, saying that the successor of Sir J. J. Thomson to the presidency of the Royal Society was the first physiologist to attain that coveted post during the two hundred and fifty years' existence of the society? Sir Charles Sherrington has been Waynflete Professor of Physiology at Oxford University since 1913, and was created a G.B.E. last year.

Sir Charles graciously expressed his deep thanks for the high honour conferred upon him, declaring what a great pleasure it was to be associated with McGill, and its students. "Here I stand a student, among students, the very newest graduate, but by no means the youngest," he aptly said. "I have entered into a share of the great tradition of your university, a vivid evidence of which was the unveiling yesterday of the memorial window to three great sons of McGill."

Sir Charles was forced to limit his remarks, owing to the fact that he was leaving the city in half an hour's time soon to return to England. His closing words were taken from Polonius' advice to his departing son Laertes in immortal "Hamlet," paraphrased to suit McGill. Sir Charles received an ovation before he bade the gathering adieu.

Dr. Frank D. Adams, Vice-Principal and Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science, Dr. Gordon J. Laing, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Dr. F. G. Finley, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, and Dr. H. C. Perrin, Dean of the Faculty of Music, presented nineteen students for degrees in their respective faculties. The following received degrees, some "in absentia":—

Diploma of Licentiate in Music:—Hazel M. Rexford, Montreal, Que.; and Florence Wagner, Regina, Sask. B.A.: Alice Victoria Smith, Phillipsburg, Que.; Gordon Morley Webster, Westmount, Que.; Edwin Minter Crawford, Pointe Claire, Que.

B.Sc. (in Arts):—Benjamin Alexander, Montreal, Que.; Carol Hyman Grading, Montreal, Que.

B. Com.:—William Ronald Stewart, Ottawa, Ont.

B.Sc. (Applied Science):—Reginald Bancroft Abbot-Smith, Westmount, Que.

Mus. Bac.:—Arthur Eggerton, Winnipeg, Man.

M.D., C.M.:—Aaron Davis, Montreal, Que.; Frank Newton Feader, Toronto, Ont.; Thomas Harold Field, Edmonton, Alta.; Robert Roy McDonald, Warren, Ont.; Stanley Frederick Service, Edmonton, Alta.

M.Sc.:—Robert Scott Eadie, B.Sc., Montreal, Que.

Mus. Doc.:—Alfred Ernest Whitehead, Montreal, Que.

Ph.D.:—Geil Vivian Von Abo, M.Sc., Bloomfontein, South Africa.

The ceremony closed with the benediction pronounced by Dr. Ritchie, and the National Anthem.

"Mr. Smith left his umbrella again." "I do believe he would lose his head if it were loose."

"I dare say you're right. I heard he was going to Colorado for his lungs."

"What did Tom say when Pat called him a liar?" "Nothin' much."

"That's funny. Tom used to be a hot-tempered guy."

"Well, he never said a word, except 'Have ye had enough yet?'"

NOISY CROWD EXPECTED AT UNION TODAY

Rooters Preparing for Game With Queens.

PEPPY YELLS

Prizes Still Offered for New Yells and Parodies

What do you think of the new ROOTERS YELLS that have been appearing in the Daily? Hard to judge without hearing them isn't it? That's Bert Tremaine's idea anyway, and they will all be tried out to-night in the Union at 5.15. The song parodies will get their turn at the following meeting when the band will be out in force under Lloyd Stephen.

The offer of a prize of two reserved seats at the Queens game still holds good. There are two prizes offered—one for the best yell, one for the best parody on a popular song. The decision will not be made for several days yet so there is plenty of time to send in anything you have or to work up a peppy idea. Contributions may be dropped in the daily box at the Union.

It is suggested that songs and yells sent in should not contain knocks for the other team, but should be straightforward appeals to our own men to plunge in and win.

McGill men get only two chances in a season to support their senior football team at home. The first of them comes next Saturday, and it's up to the gang to snap into the new stuff so there won't be any fading away of voices at the Stadium. It's a good chance for the Freshmen to get acquainted with the old standbys too. "Nuts" Nutting and Tremaine will be on hand prepared to outdo themselves. So it's a straight tip to secure throat pastilles.

Queen's have piled up some rather large scores already this season, and the Red and White will want support from the stands.

Time and again it has been demonstrated that organized rooting has been the determining factor in a closely contested rugby game. Saturday's game is sure to be a tight one and every leather lunged son of McGill is needed to cheer on the team. The organization of the Rooters' club is alright—there are capable fellows of the "live-wire" type in charge of that and all that remains for the fans to do is to turn out to-night and learn how to put pep and action into the various new songs and yells. Practice makes perfect and the few days left before the game should be put to good use by all those who want the Red and White to win on Saturday.

The band is going strong but it sure takes lots of lung to distribute music over the Stadium or to lead a parade of a thousand vociferous Rooters, so anyone who can play a wind instrument may join up—is urged to do so in fact.

A GOOD TURNOUT FOR WATER POLO

Swimmers Training Hard at Y.M.C.A. Tank

Judging from the material on hand at Saturday's practice, McGill's prospects of again carrying off the water-polo championship this year seem to be very good. While some of last season's regulars are not out this year, there are enough of the old guard left to form the best part of a very strong team. Some of the Freshmen candidates look very promising, and are fast ripening into expert players under the guiding hand of Coach Vernot. With such men as George Ennot, Laidley, Ross and Anson as a beginning, it will not be difficult to find enough new material to fill in with. Of last year's Intermediates, Brown, Munro, Forsyth and Vickerson are again on hand, and with a little more hard practice look good for places on the Senior squad. Of the new men, Kyle, Phipps, and Moore look especially promising, while Potter is doing some good work in goals.

There are at least four places to fill on the Intermediates, and also room for a few good men on the Seniors. However, no one has a claim on any of the positions, and any good man has a chance to make either of the teams if he will only turn out to the practice, and show his wares. Practices are to be held in future on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Saturdays at 5.15 p.m., at Central Y.M.C.A. bath. Every swimmer in college is urged to turn out and try for the team.

McGILL S. C. A. TRAVELLED TO MACDONALD

Bob Hall Preached at Evening Service

LIVELY DISCUSSION

Plans Formed for Coming Session

In spite of extremely bad weather, which continued all day, a party of about forty delegates from the McGill S.C.A. journeyed to St. Annes for a conference held under the auspices of the sister organization at Macdonald College. The object of the gathering was to provide a common starting point for the year's activities around Strathcona Hall, and to discuss further some of the issues that had been raised during the recent conference held at Elgin House, Muskoka.

Leaving Windsor Station at 9.20, the party which was accommodated in a special coach reached St. Annes early in the morning, and the conference was convened for the morning session at 10.30 in the Central building of Macdonald College.

The discussion was opened by Miss Dorothy Cross, who in a few well-chosen words gave the meeting some idea of what the Muskoka Conference had meant to her. Perhaps its greatest significance, she said, was in the number of questions which the study groups there had made more pressing. Solutions had not been given at the recent conference. Questions had been raised, and it was in future student work at McGill and outside that solutions were to be sought. Jim Ross also contributed some remarks upon the influence of the work at Elgin House, after which the discussion became general, everyone feeling free to speak without any barriers of formality or custom. Questions of the widest import in the domain of religious and ethical thought were broached, and a great variety of views were expressed.

DR. SCLATER WILL ADDRESS STUDENTS

The Rev. J. R. P. Sclater, D.D., of the New North Church, Edinburgh, is speaking on "The Enterprise of Preaching" in the David Morrice Hall, Presbyterian College, 67 McTavish Street, tonight at 8 p.m. The Board of Governors and the faculty of the Montreal Theological Colleges will be present at this lecture, which marks the official opening of the current session.

Dr. Sclater is known widely as a preacher and a student leader, and all students of McGill are invited to attend this meeting. Shortly after Monday night Dr. Sclater is returning to Scotland and all those who wish to hear him should seize the present opportunity.

and as soon as possible, for the first Intermediate game is at Maisonneuve on October 20th, while the Seniors play their first game on the 25th, at M.A.A.A. A complete schedule will be announced shortly, and rooters are asked to keep their dates open for the water polo games and turn out to help the team to victory.

FROSH WON FROM SOPHS ON SATURDAY

Good Showing of Freshmen in Track Meet.

CLOSE FINISHES.

Inclement Weather Does Not Debar Carrying Out of Sports

In the first opportunity offered them as a class to show their wares, the Freshman class came across big on Saturday afternoon by defeating the Sophomores in the annual Freshman-Sophomore track meet. The Sophs had the larger entry but their spirits were evidently dampened by weather conditions, as several did not make an appearance, while others were driven to permanent cover by a small shower about the middle of the afternoon.

In each event there was good competition and although no records were made or broken, due, no doubt, to track conditions, the times in a few events were quite good. The performance of Patterson of First Year was outstanding, inasmuch as he took first place in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, and the running broad jump, and also ran as fourth man in the Relay Race, which the Freshmen won with ease. Code, another First Year man, showed promise in the Pole Vault, which he won without being greatly extended at the height of 9 feet 6 inches. With proper training these two men should soon develop into championship calibre and their work is encouraging for the future. The weight events were not as keenly contested as they might have been, due to the non-arrival of the Sophomore's star husky.

The result was in doubt up till the last event, which was won by the Freshies, bringing the final standing 621-2 points to 591-2 in their favor. This is the first year since the fall of '18 that the Freshmen have been capable of defeating the Sophs, and therefore much credit is due them. In that year such stars as Hay, Kennedy and Hamilton performed at McGill for the first time and since then have been continually heard from. As two of these mainstays of the track team are making their last performance on the track in the interests of McGill at the coming Collegiate meet, it is to the present First Year class that we look to fill their places.

The winners of the individual events were:

EVENT NO. 1—100 YARD DASH.
First, Patterson; second, Smythe; third, Smith. Time 10.3-5 seconds.
EVENT NO. 2—POLE VAULT.
First, Code; second, Farrer; third, McGerige. Height, 9 feet 6 inches.
EVENT NO. 3—880 YARDS.
First, Watson; second, Grimson; third, Hamby. Time, 2 minutes 13 seconds.
EVENT NO. 4—HURDLES.
First, Darling; second, Robb; third, Norton. Time, 18.3-5 seconds.
EVENT NO. 5—HAMMER.
First, Cotter; second, Mace; third, (Continued on Page 4)

PSYCHOLOGISTS TO HEAR DR. W.D. TAIT

Meeting Will be Open to the Public

The youngest society of the University will hold its opening meeting for the session on Wednesday, October 18th. The feature of this inaugural meeting of the Psychological Society will be a paper by Dr. W. D. Tait, Professor of Psychology and Honorary-President of the Society, on "The Place of Psychology in a Career."

It has been decided to hold the regular meeting of the Society on the third Wednesday of each month and an attractive program has been arranged by the executive. Prof. Dawson, Mr. W. C. Quayle, Mr. Otto Klineberg and others who have made extensive studies in particular fields of the science of psychology are expected to give papers. Open discussion will follow the speaker on each occasion. As the October meeting is the first general meeting of the Society, this will be open to the public and a short business meeting of the members will follow the open meeting.

Psychology has the advantage among the sciences of being one in which practically every one is interested. Students in Medicine, Law, (Continued on Page 2)
